

This holiday season, thousands of young people experiencing homelessness will not be gathering with loved ones. Instead, they will be looking for someone – anyone – who cares.

Covenant House is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, with outreach teams on the streets searching for young people in need every night. Still, too many youths don't know help is available and will spend their nights cold, alone, hungry and scared.

Help us share a simple, profound message today with young people in need – that Covenant House is a safe place they can turn to, filled with people who care.

Make a difference in a young person's life this holiday season by airing our latest public service announcement, Silent Night.
