It's shocking that in today's America, women veterans and women with disabilities still face unacceptable barriers to essential healthcare. Together, PVA and Hannah Storm reveal the painful reality of inaccessible medical facilities and equipment and demonstrate how PVA is leading the fight to ensure that women with disabilities – especially women Veterans who served this country – receive the care they earned and deserve. It's time to take a stand and put Women First.

In Women First featuring Hannah Storm, the latest public service announcement from Paralyzed Veterans of America (PVA), award-winning sports journalist and breast cancer survivor Hannah Storm introduces viewers to two courageous female veterans. Help raise awareness of the issue of inaccessible medical care for women with mobility issues...your mom, wife, daughter, grandmother, and more by sharing these PSAs in your communities.

Every woman deserves equal access to healthcare. Please consider airing Women First featuring Hannah Storm and help PVA advocate for accessible medical care for ALL women with disabilities. With your help, we can make a difference.
