Nyheim Hines
Professional Football Player

Nyheim Hines, running back for the Indianapolis Colts, was 14 years old when his mom was diagnosed with muscular dystrophy. Throughout her illness, Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) has been there for her, and millions of others like her, with support and resources needed to keep her cheering Nyheim on from the sidelines.

With over 150 Care Centers across the United States, MDA is the leading organization in research and care for kids and adults living with muscular dystrophy, ALS and neuromuscular diseases. Nyheim supports MDA and hopes he can count on your support to air their new public service announcement to educate your audiences.
