

Childhood should be the happiest time of life, but for many, childhood is riddled with pain, rejection, shame and isolation.

Mercy Ships, with the two largest floating civilian hospitals in the world, answers that cry by delivering free, world-class healthcare services, capacity building, and sustainable development to those with little access in the developing world.

In Mercy Ship's all new PSA, One Child at a Time, Mercy Ships exhibits how their volunteer medical staff and crew help to provide lifesaving healthcare to more than 55 developing countries. By airing this PSA, you can educate your community on the incredible work of Mercy Ships and help thousands of people continue to live happy and healthy lives.
